The Prophet Muhammad himself described the effects of black cumin oil. The small, jet-black seeds come from a poppy-like capsule. Black cumin oil contains valuable polyunsaturated fatty acids, rare oil fractions, and over 100 phytochemicals. With its polyunsaturated fatty acids, black cumin oil provides an important nutritional foundation for the body’s production of prostaglandins.

Our black cumin oil is cold-pressed (below 40 degrees) under moderate pressure. We consistently avoid the extraction and refining processes that are often standard practice for our oils. This prevents subsequent heat damage, chemical and physical changes, or processing residues. The final product also contains no preservatives or other additives. Our oils are coarsely filtered so that
