The Brillante K AS-X saddle features a saddle tree equipped with the revolutionary new AS-X technology. This technology is the result of combining two technologies: the Adaptive System and X-Technology. The “Adaptive System” is the only shock-absorbing system that allows for axial and torsional-lateral movement of the tree. Thanks to its geometry, X-Technology with injection-molded membranes, and the patented “Adaptive System,” it is able to fully follow the horse’s movements and provide the rider with maximum stability. The front section of the saddle is designed to bring the rider as close as possible to the horse, while the rear section, with its large injected membranes, provides maximum stability. The design, developed specifically for maximum flexibility, allows the horse to fully express its athletic abilities. The deep seat allows the rider to settle into the saddle while maintaining the independence of their aids. The tapered sections on the large and small saddle flaps enhance communication between horse and rider. In the single-flap version (K), the high and angled position of the knee rolls provides the rider with maximum support; the version with large knee rolls promotes stability, while the version with small knee rolls maximizes knee freedom. Both versions feature extra-soft knee rolls that give the rider a soft-touch feel. The Brillante K AS-X offers numerous customization options thanks to the two cushion variants: Standard and CP. INFO: The images shown are standard illustrations of the respective saddle model.
