The Soft Up Pro + stirrup from Freejump is the successor to the tried-and-true Soft Up Pro stirrup. It is highly regarded by the world’s top riders. It combines comfort, safety, and performance in one. The single-arm stirrup is made of extremely strong spring steel, which is encased in Elastollan®. The stirrup’s rounded design ensures optimized shock absorption, resulting in greater comfort while riding. The patented outer arm, made entirely of Elastollan®, gives the stirrup its flexibility and, consequently, its highly valued safety feature. It opens when the foot applies tension, should the foot become caught in the stirrup during a fall. The open eyelet for threading the single-strap Freejump stirrup strap, with a 45° eyelet angle and the extra-wide Ixef®1022 footplate (made of glass-fiber-reinforced polyacrylamide), ensures perfect foot positioning. The stirrup arm, which is offset forward relative to the footplate, ensures a natural angle of inclination. Compared to the Soft Up Pro, the Pro+ features a footplate that is 1.6 cm (27%) larger.
