RP Dressage A152 – Saddle Girth for Horses and Ponies

The RP Dressage A152 combines innovative design with proven functionality. The product features a durable, round breastplate with a specially tailored dressage girth running through it. This well-thought-out combination ensures an optimal fit and stability during training and competition.

The unique construction of the breastplate is based on a two-part design concept: The outer, curved, round profile works in conjunction with three oval inserts made of soft material on the inside. This arrangement creates an air cushion that distributes pressure evenly over a larger surface area. This minimizes lateral movement, as the girth can slide within the breastplate.

Additional loops for the girth strap allow for a more precise fit and contribute to greater safety. The product was developed specifically for the demands of dressage and offers reliable support for both horses and ponies.
