The Bucas Therapy Cooler is an excellent combination of the valuable features of the Bucas Therapy series and the benefits of the Bucas Cooler.
The high-quality material of the Therapy blankets consists of an extremely fine stainless steel mesh that reflects the magnetic fields generated within the horse’s body. This, in turn, stimulates blood circulation and oxygen flow in the horse’s body and back, which can help reduce swelling and inflammation and accelerate recovery.

With the Bucas Therapy Cooler, the therapeutic material is located in the back area and the “stay-dry” fleece in the lower part of the cooler. This means the cooler can be placed on a wet horse, and its “stay-dry” properties will dry the horse while the benefits of the Therapy blanket take effect. The Therapy blanket can be worn by the horse for 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, if necessary, since it is NOT a magnetic blanket. However, it is recommended to gradually increase the use of the therapy blankets and monitor the horse, as the material’s properties warm the muscles and the horse may begin to sweat with prolonged use of the blanket. These therapeutic blankets are the ideal choice for horses with back problems or whose muscles warm up slowly while riding. In addition, the recovery process and rest periods are naturally accelerated. The material’s properties cannot be washed out.

The shoulder gussets, the T-clasp with magnetic snap lock, and the cross surcingles also ensure the blanket fits perfectly.
The Therapy Cooler can optionally be used as a stable, transport, or cooling blanket. With the Bucas-specific attachment points, the Therapy Cooler can also be used as an underblanket for outdoor and stable blankets.

The Bucas Therapy Mesh Cooler is the ideal blanket for the warmer months of the year. The blanket features the same properties as standard Bucas Therapy blankets and also includes a fine mesh material in the lower section for optimal air circulation. The Bucas Mesh Cooler is available in the classic cut and, optionally, with a separately available neck piece (Bucas Therapy Mesh Neck)
