Product information

For injuries, to warm up and loosen up, or after strenuous exercise, the new W-Health & Care gaiter from Waldhausen supports the regeneration of the horse’s leg through three functions: vibration, cooling, and warming. In cases of tendon damage, the W-Health & Care gaiter can support the realignment of tendon fibers during the healing phase. The gaiter’s versatile cooling function has an anti-inflammatory effect. When the vibration function is activated at the same time, the gaiter can minimize swelling and stimulate blood circulation in the leg. Even in winter, during longer periods of rest in the stall, the W-Health & Care gaiter is ideal for warming up the horse’s leg and stimulating blood flow. This makes the tendons more elastic and can reduce the risk of injury.
The gaiter’s vibration and heating functions can be adjusted to three different levels, allowing you to tailor them perfectly to your horse’s needs. The gaiter comes in an attractive, insulated cooler bag, ensuring the ice packs stay cool on the way to the stable.
Power bank, charging cable, and ice packs included
Battery life is approximately 90 minutes when using the vibration and heat functions simultaneously. Battery life may vary under extreme temperatures. Sold individually
