The cozy, soft, and stretchy WESLEY paddock and leisure glove is a versatile all-rounder suitable for all activities on the way to and inside the stable. What also sets them apart is their exceptionally high recycled content—which conserves raw materials and protects nature and the environment. The PrimaLoft® Performance Fabric Energy Series Solid Waves functional fabric, with its soft, brushed inner surface, is responsible for the unmatched comfort, the pleasant feel against the skin, and the reliable warmth retention. This super-flexible 4-way stretch fabric is made of 95 percent recycled polyester from plastic waste and 5 percent spandex. It is also highly breathable, dries quickly, and features an abrasion-resistant, silky-smooth outer surface that resists wear and tear. The palm has been reinforced with a trim made from the new ECO.SENSE®. The pleasantly soft, grippy, and durable ECO.SENSE® is a partially recycled synthetic suede made of 92 percent polyester and 8 percent spandex. Incidentally, 60 percent of the polyester used consists of recycled, GRS-certified yarn, which was also derived from waste materials such as old PET bottles. As part of the ROECKL SPORTS ECO.SERIES collection, the WESLEY is designed to be as resource-efficient as possible—while maintaining its first-class quality. Even the logo was crafted from wood sourced from wood processing waste. As with all natural products, the texture and grain are unique—making every glove one-of-a-kind! Back of the hand: PrimaLoft® Performance Fabric Energy Series Solid Waves
