The Rambo Micklem® Long Girth combines comfort and performance in an innovative girth design. Both are eco-friendly and made from vegetable-tanned leather. The ergonomic Micklem® girth operates on a brilliant yet unique principle: creating a girth design that starts from the inside out to complement the horse's precise shape, enabling exceptional comfort and improved performance. The unique curved design of the Micklem® girth follows the shape of the horse's chest to provide proportional pressure distribution around the area, ensuring even stress on the girth straps and offering your horse a more comfortable experience. It is shaped to allow greater freedom of movement and reduce interference with your horse's elbows, incorporating an innovative groove within its design to ensure absolute comfort by eliminating pressure and any pinching that can occur at the sternum when using a martingale strap around the girth. It also features a reinforced D-ring buckle for attaching the martingale to the girth. A brilliantly designed
