An alternative to leather that feels just like leather while retaining its comfort and softness.
The various microfibers used for EcoRiding—for the upper, insole, and lining—are the result of a production process that guarantees full compliance with environmental regulations.
The special V-Label-certified microfiber used for the upper is 100% waterproof and fully breathable, as well as abrasion-resistant and antibacterial.
EcoRiding combines the selection and use of alternative, advanced, and certified materials with a constant search for new stylistic and functional solutions.
